OVERVIEW

Amy Fox is an associate in our Casualty Department handling matters involving premises liability, automobile liability, hospitality and liquor liability and sports and entertainment litigation. Additionally, she represents national and local retail clients defending general casualty matters and negligent security matters.

Amy earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Communications with a concentration in Public Relations from James Madison University. Following graduation Amy worked in the publicity department of a movie production company. Having always had an interest in law, she then went on to work for many years as a paralegal for firms dedicated to insurance defense litigation. While simultaneously working and going to law school part-time, Amy earned her law degree from Seton Hall University School of Law. After graduation, she went on to work as a Law Clerk to the Honorable Peter G. Sheridan, U.S.D.J.

Amy is admitted to practice in the state of New Jersey.

Summary Judgment Secured in a Dram Shop Liability Case

Hospitality & Liquor Liability
June 5, 2024
We won summary judgment in a challenging dram shop liability case against a large restaurant chain where the demand was $1 million. The plaintiff alleged our client was responsible for overserving the co-defendant driver prior to the subject motor vehicle accident. The court agreed with our arguments that the plaintiff failed to establish a violation of the The New Jersey Dram Shop Act. The plaintiff failed to present an expert report until opposing our motion for summary judgment.
